

Les Blow Trial — by Dave Fair

Wet, drizzly weather was in store for the thirty-seven riders who entered the annual Les Blow trial held at the Club property on February 12th. Once known as the “Hangover Trial” because it was started to “clear the heads” of those that attended the annual banquet the previous day, the name was changed to honour a former member, Les Blow. Ten sections were laid out in varying degrees of difficulty for the seven different classes and most riders rode three loops. There were some new faces participating this time:- Shane Cuthbertson and Stephen Foord visiting from Alberta and Heather Wall from Powell River. Rhys Hathaway was competing in his first ever trial (he did well) and Matt Swanson competing again after a twenty year break. Also making an appearance were Perry Chow and Turk Perepalkin. Dave Horner, chairperson for organizing the last eighteen Terra Novas, put in some fine rides on his Bultaco in the Vintage class. The committee for the day was Ian Cottier and Dave Fair with help from Andrew Watson, Thomas Cordner, Dave Nunn, Hugh Simpson, Paul Brend, Rob Hannah, Rod Volk and Don Venn — thanks to all.
